Not illustrated. 1861 Excerpt: .from Manassas station, and transacted the business of the road at that place, without a house to shelter them from the weather, or for purposes of rest, poorly supplied with necessary food, and the impossibility of obtaining assistance for their relief; by day and by night they have stood to their posts without complaint, and performed an amount of work scarcely to be conceived as within the compass of human efforts. The thanks of the stockholders are especially due to the general agent nt Manassas, Mr. James A. Evans, for the faithful and satisfactory manner with which he has discharged his arduous and responsible duties at that point. Much credit is duo also to another agent of the company, Mr. W. A. Duncan, who rendered especially most valuable sen-ice, by the spirit and address which he displayed in reclaiming some valuable books and records of the...

Reviews

The publication is simple in go through preferable to fully grasp. I am quite late in start reading this one, but better then never. It is extremely difficult to leave it before concluding, once you begin to read the book.
